

For unrestricted use of the software, Linguatec Voice Reader Studio must be activated no later than 30 days after installation.

You will automatically be prompted to activate the product each time the program starts (e.g., by clicking on Start – All Programs – Linguatec GmbH – Voice Reader Studio or by clicking on the “Linguatec Voice Reader Studio” icon on the desktop) until Linguatec Voice Reader Studio has been activated.

You need to have administrator rights to carry out the activation (under Windows Vista, right click the Linguatec Voice Reader Studio icon on the desktop and select “Run as administrator”).

The following images illustrate the steps to be taken in the instant activation process:

If Linguatec Voice Reader Studio has not been activated, when the program is started the following window will appear within the 30-day period after installation:

Select the desired dialog language and then click “Activate now” to begin activation.

Please enter your 29-digit license key (the separators are also part of the license key and have to be entered) into the appropriate field in the line provided for your installed Voice Reader Studio version.

Carefully fill in the fields in the lower section of the product activation window with your customer data (title, first name, second name, email address, country).

Then click "Continue".

A product activation window will open, which allows you to choose an activation method:

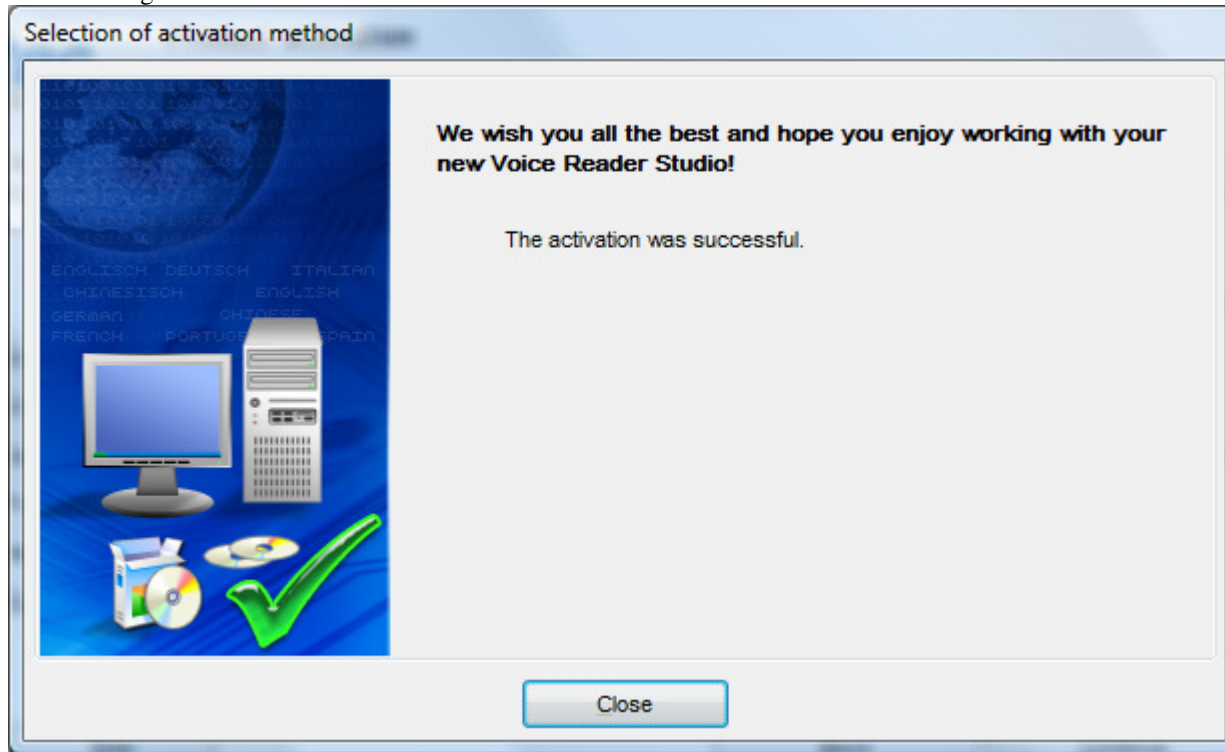

Select "Instant activation" if your PC has an Internet connection. Ensure that there is a connection to the Internet.

You should normally select the option "Do not use proxy server" under "Proxy settings" in the product activation window.

For information on the options "Copy settings from Internet Explorer" and "User-defined settings", read the instructions in the manual (p. 14) or the help file ("Help" button).

Then click “Continue”.

You will be given a confirmation when the activation is successful.

To finish the activation process, click “Close”.
